Back in June 2008, I noticed that one of my pecan trees was withering and seemed to be a "sick tree".

After talking to several friends, they highly recommended calling the Dallas Arboretum which I did. The arboretum gave me several names, and after talking to some of the companies, I chose the Brown Co. - they seemed more knowledgeable.

I was well pleased with the Brown service their promptness in taking care of my tree and them being very helpful and courteous in answering my questions concerning trimming & future fertilization of trees.

I was so impressed with Mr. Brown's Co., Mr. Brown's wife who came by later that day checking to see if job done to my satisfaction, as well as Mr. Brown's employees that I wrote a letter of recommendation to the arboretum.

I certainly intend to use this company in the future.
